MISSIONARY HIGHLIGHT

Trevor Carpenter Persian Gulf

Openings for military chaplain positions go unfilled every year because not enough people are willing to apply. In 2015, Trevor Carpenter left his job as a pastor and stepped into his role as Navy chaplain assigned to a ship in the Persian Gulf.

Trevor said he spends most of his day sharing the Gospel, counseling and listening.

“I often joke that it is like Super Summer without the Thursday night cryfest, and that these guys have guns,” Trevor said.

Trevor said he has experiences every day where he sees God’s work.

In the Middle East last year on a deployment, Trevor was talking with with another officer. The officer shared that his troops had often thought that God had forgotten about them.

“They thought that God had turned their back until our conversations started while being deployed,” he recalled. “It was in the middle of a watch, that in our conversations, they had realized that God had sent me out there to let them know He still loved them.”

It was powerful for Carpenter to share that God did love those men and women enough to have him leave his family just to share that God hadn’t turned His back on them.

Our Cooperative Program giving provides funds that support the Texas Baptists Office of Chaplaincy Relations. Let’s pray today for Director of Chaplaincy Relations Bobby Smith and his staff as they provide needed endorsement for hundreds of chaplains all around the world.
